American Dance

You Might Be A Dancer If....

1. Your furniture in your room is arranged to create the largest open space possible.
2. You pop out of your chair and start dancing to the songs on TV.
3. You critique the technique of dancers you see on TV or in other performances.
4. You have an entire drawer filled with old costumes and practice clothes.
5. If seated, you cannot listen to music without choreographing a routine in your head.
6. You can apply full stage make-up in five minutes (Bonus points if you can do it while seated in the back seat of a moving bus).
7. Hallways and grocery stores are always a place to practice leaps.
8. You own more dancewear than normal clothes.
9. You can fix anything with safety pins.
10. Dance merchandise and costume catalogues are captivating reading material.
11. Seeing someone do the splits does not send you into shock.
12. Stretching is not just something you do for a few seconds when you roll out of bed in the morning.
13. You do not think "Capezio" is an Italian pasta dish.
14. 9 out of 10 of your t-shirts are from dance/drill team events.
15. You find yourself walking in step with people in school/work hallways.
16. For you, the year is divided not by weather seasons, but by football/contest/spring show seasons.
17. Fake eyelashes and glitter are common items in your makeup bag.
18. You have ever called your mom in tears begging her to bring tights, bobby pins, or shoe polish.
19. You wish professional football games showed the halftime performances.
20. You say "5, 6, 7, 8" instead of "Ready, set, go!"
